課程概述 Course Descriptions	This course aims to train students' pronunciation through systematic practice, develop their listening comprehension through a variety of listening skills training, and improve their speaking ability through extensive speaking practice.
學習目標 Learning Objectives	Through systematic practice with such phenomena as linking, assimilation, reduced speech, etc., students will be trained to acquire discrete-point listening so as to comprehend authentic, natural everyday conversations. They will be trained to acquire listening strategies including summarizing main ideas, drawing inferences, guessing meaning from context, and listening for details. By participating in group discussions and giving public speeches, they will improve their communication and presentation skills and competence in speaking English. In addition to a mid-term and a final, they will be quizzed regularly for the purpose of evaluating their progress.
